A JEALOUS HUSBAND'S CRIME. ATTEMPTED WIFE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

SHOOTING HIS SLEEPING WIFE AND PUTTING TWO BULLETS IN HIS OWN HEAD.

Prompted by jealousy George Russell attempted to commit the two crimes of wife minder and suicide, early resterday morning at his home, No. 1,043 Gates-ave., near Ralph-ave., Brooklyn. He succeeded in slightly wounding his wife in the head, with one shot of his pistol while she was asieep, and then put it to his own head and fired two shots, one or both of which entered his brain, and from which he will probably die.

Russell is forty-one years old, and was formerly a shade-maker, and afterward a letter-carrier; but he had been out of work for some time. He was troubled with rheumatism and paralysis, and had shown some signs of a failing mind, being exceedingly morose at times. He head with his wife and eight children. On Monday night Russell and his wife went to bed as usual about 11 o'clock. Shortly after 5 a.m., yesterday Mrs. Russell was awakened by a noise and she felt blood trickling down her face. Russell had risen, taken his revolver, and standing at the foot of the bed fired at his sleeping wife. The bullet entered the left side of her head and being deflected by the skull passed under the scalp to the top of her head. Russell fired again, this time at himself, and the ball entered his head just above the right ear. He immediately fired another which entered his head a little further back. Further use of the pistol was prevented by Russell's son-in-law, J. R. Hauley, who was aroused by the shooting. He grassed his father-in-law, and endeavorea to wrest the pistol from him. Both struggled desperately and the pistol fell to the floer before and arrived. The sound of the shooting had been heard in the car stables opposite the house, and two policemen were called. They quickly aided Hanley to control his father-in-law.

Dr. Wood was the first physician summoned and he was quickly followed by Ambulance Surgeon Peterman. They found that Mrs. Russell's hart was slight, and that Russell's recovery was deemed impossible. Russell was then removed to St. Mary's Hospital. The revolver which he used was of cheap

GIVING THE LIE TO GENERAL BUTLER. THE FARRAGUT VETERAN ASSOCIATION REPLIES TO A LETTER FROM THE EX-GOVERNOR.

TO A LETTER FROM THE EX-GOVERNOR.

At a recent meeting of the Farragat Veteran Association, it was resolved to have the annual dinner at the Stevens House, No. 27 Broadway, on April 24. A reply to General B. F. Butler's letter to the House Committee on Naval Affairs, stating that the association was "composed of a lot of claim agents," has been made, which "protests against being subject to vile abuse after being swindled." The Nautical Gazette publishes General Butler's letter and the reply in full. The reply charges that General Butler's letter is couched in brutal terms and contains rank falsehood; it states that the association is composed entirely of men who served in the Navy during the Rebellion; and although the association is formed to look after the interests of their shipmates, and obtain for them such recognition as their services in the late war entitle them to, it takes pride in warning its members against the employment of claim agents. As to General Butler's assertion that the members are not sailers. Secretary Grove writes: "Well, there is a plain word of three letters | meaning lie—Ed.] by which that assertion may be answered."

In another part of the letter the secretary says:

And now, my dear General "Boum" of Army record, and political jack of all shades of civil life, you complain that you fought those cases against all those counsel and a dranken judge or two, ... and that you believe you got "no more than the rest of them, the counsel, although I had all the work on one side, and they had three or four on the other."

Mr. Grove quotes from the report to show that the total amount awarded as Farragut prize and

In conclusion, Secretary Grove says: You stated what was false, and you know in your heart it was false, and so, General B. F. Butler, an recoir.

VICTORY FOR INSPECTOR ESTERBROOK. VICTORY FOR INSPECTOR ESTERBROOK.

Inspector Esterbrook yesterday received official notice that he had been sustained in a suit which was begun last year to cause the erection of fire-escapes on the Buckingham Hotel, in Fifth-ave, and Fiftieth-st. George Kenp, the owner of the hotel, refused to comply with a notice issued from the Bureau of Buildings, and when the case was carried into the courts he produced the affiidavits of a number of buildiers and property-owners who thought that the escapes ordered by Mr. Esterbrook were not necessary. Judge Donahue has decided that the fire-escapes are needed for the protection of the inmates of the hotel, and he has issued an order authorizing the Fire Department to creet the escapes unless the owner shall perform the work before July 1.

A NEW COMMERCIAL BODY PROPOSED. A NEW COMMERCIAL BODY PROPOSED.

A petition that was circulated in the Produce Exchange yesterday for subscribers to a proposed new exchange, or open board of brokers, was signed by over fifty individuals and firms. The organization is to be incorporated when there are not less than 250 members, and the memberships are not to be above $100 each. One of the leaders in the movement said:

The organization will probably work under rules similar to those of the Chicago Board of Trade, but it will not be like it in any other way. A large number of members of the Produce Exchange are disatisfied with the cast-iron rule recently adopted that the Exchange shall close at 3 o'clock, and with others who are anxhous to ion 1 think the new body will be a formidable one. While the Chicago Board of Trade closes at three o'clock, they have a "call board" when continues from three till four o'clock. The New-York Produce Exchange rules handicap many merchants. For instance, of high and wheat declines in Chicago, after the close here, I's cents a bushel, and many of our merchants were running around with their hands in their pockets wondering what to do. Oh, yes, we will have an exchange downtown, but nothing definite will be done until we reach the limit of subscribers. It will not be so close a corporation as is the Produce Exchange, but the general public will be able to trade.

INVITED TO LONDON TO DISCUSS HEALTH.

The Board of Health recently received through the Department of State at Washington a letter from the Duke of Buckingham, inclosing circulars regarding the International Health Exhibition, which is to be held in London in a few months, under the presidency of the Prince of Wales. The Duke of Buckingham is chairman of the Executive Council of the exhibition, and he has suggested the appointment of local committees in this country to present the aims of the exhibition to the American public. The Board of Health yesterday passed a resolution inviting the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Education to appoint two members each to unite with the Health Commissioners and constitute a local committee. The Board also appointed Dr. Woolsey Johnson and Professor Charles F. Chandler delegates to the International Health Congress, which is to be held in London in June or July. INVITED TO LONDON TO DISCUSS HEALTH.

A NEW DINING AND SOCIAL CLUB.

The trustees of the Whitehall Club, organized by members of the Produce Exchange, forwarded their articles of incorporation to Albany yesterday. The club is limited to 100 members, and yesterday the list was full. There is a strong presure on the trustees to extend the limit. The objects of the association, as stated in the articles of jects of the association as stated in the articles of incorporation, are "to promote social intercourse, and for the mutual benefit of its members."

The trustees have leased four rooms, overlooking the Bay, on the seventh floor of the Washington Building. One will be fitted up as a dining hall. The trustees are Leonard Hazeltifie, Thomas A. Mc-Intyre, John B. McCue, Charles R. Hickox, D. Allen Lindley, Charles D. Sabin, John A. Tobey, William H. Wallace, Richard Arnold, Edward Annau, Henry T. Kneeland, Henry C. Ward, Robert S. Hoit, J. M. Hazeltine, and Henry Allen. Officers will be elected in a few days.

THE FOREST MASS-MEETING SPEAKERS. At the consultation of the committee in charge of the preparations for the mass-meeting in behalf of the forests, there were present yesterday afternoon Dr. Ferdinand Seeger, who presided; ex-Senator Alfred Wagstaff, Senator Boyd, A. E. Whitman, G. E. Gaden, H. A. Heiser, J. F. Henry, G. R. Hawes and James de Mandeville, It was decided to hold a meeting on Thursday afternoon, at which the date of the mass-meeting will be fixed. Among those who will make addresses at the mass-meeting will be F. B. Thurbor and the Hon. Henry Herbert, of England, who will explain the English laws respecting the forests. Mayor Edson will preside. The committee adopted a resolution urging the organization of a New-York Forestry League, to act in conjunction with the State Grange, for the purpose of educating the people upon the value of woodlands. TRIAL OF GEORGE E. ROOD.

The trial of George E. Rood, the conductor of the New-Haven train which was run into in the tunnel in Fourth-ave, at Eighty-sixth-st, on September 22, 1882, by the Harlem rapid transit train, thus causing what is known as the tunnel disaster, was on trial in the Court of Oyer and Terminer yesterday for manslaughter in the fourth degree in causing the death of Marie Aubert. He was indicted for not having sent back a brakeman to signal the approaching train. Thomas W. Wright, the telegraph operator at Eighty-sixth-st., testified that the train stood at that point six or seven minutes. The tunnel was exceedingly dark. Other witnesses corroborated this view. George H. Van Tassel, an engineer, swore that with the automatic brake he had stopped a train of five cars, going twenty miles an hour, within a distance of 300 feet. He had seen from Ninety-fourth-st. a light at the Eighty-sixth-st, station. Hiram J. Holden, the engineer of the Harlem train, said that he could not see twenty feet ahead in the tunnel. He saw a red light a short distance ahead, which disappeared on the left. He applied the brakes at once, without appreciable effect before the collision. No torpedoes were on the track. Augustus M. Ackert, the fireman, saw no light. Frank W. Elkington, a passenger on the Harlem train, saw what appeared to be a flash of lightning before the collision.

ALONE IN A BOAT ON THE ATLANTIC. WRECK OF THE BRIG A. G. JEWETT-STORY OF THE

Among the passengers on board of the Pacific Mail steamship Acapulco, which arrived from Aspinwall yesterday, was James Pratt, second mate of the brig A. G. Jewett, of Belfast, Me., and the only surviving member of the crew of that vessel, which was wrecked off Cape Hatteras on February 24. Mate Pratt gave the following account of the wreck.

We sailed from Philadelphia, for Materiae, Cohe, with ONLY SURVIVOR-A BARK LOST.

We called from Philadelphia for Matanzas, Cuba, with a cargo of coal and machinery, on February 19. Our crew comprised Captain Joseph Reed, First Mate Clarke, four seamen, a cook and myself. On the night of February 22 we encountered a hurricane and soon the vessel was caused to leak. At daylight on the following morning a heavy sea struck the vessel, throwing her on her beam-ends, and soon afterward another sea captized her and washed the entire crew overboard. The captiain and cook were drowned and the rest of us succeeded in getting into one of the boats. The boat, however, soon filled, but she was kept afloat by a spur to which she was lashed. The seas constantly broke over the boat, and the weather was so cold that we soon became exhausted, as we had neither food nor water. The mate and two of the seamen died on the afternoon of the following day, and three more died on the next day. I was thus left alone. After floating about for fifty-two hours I was rescued by the barkentine Edward Cushing, from Camden, Me., for Aspinwall, where we arrived on March 14. On the second day after my arrival at Aspinwall the United States Consul sent me home as a passenger on the Acapulco.

The A. G. Jewett was built at Addison, Me., in 1865, and was owned by the captain and others of Beifast, Me.

Hermann Koop & Co., No. 19 William-st., owners of the American bark Natuonal Eagle, learned yesterday that the vessel had been totally wrecked in Medolin's Gulf. She was commanded by Captain Reese, who, with the crew, was saved. The bark left this port for Fiume, Austria, with a cargo of 356,465 gallons (6,839 barrels) of crude petroleum, on January 3. The cargo was fully insured, as was also the vessel, which was valued at about $20,000.

SELLING JERSEY CATTLE AT AUCTION.

Peter C. Kellogg & Co. began yesterday at the American Horse Exchange to sell a lot of Jersey cattle, the property of John F. Maxfield, of Mapie Place, Bloomfield, N. J. The cattle were not faney, but were good dairy stock. The amount received for the forty-eight head sold was $14,320, an average of nearly $300. There was a good attendance of buyers from all over the country. A ring had been staked off in the centre of the salestroom, and chairs placed outside of it. The cattle were shown off in the ring one at a time. Mr. Kellogg kept the spectators informed as to the pedigree of the animals, with their milk and butter record, William B. Norman acted as anctioneer. The highest price pand was for the solid red farm cow, Morning's Dream, sired by Carlo out of Dexterity. She has tested for eleven pounds, Jersey weight, unsalted butter, in seven days. She was bought by F. J. Prentice, of Greenport, L. L., for $610. The brown cow, Badier's Browny, by Castor out of Astrachan, was sold to G. P. Williams, of Walpole, N. H. for $600. She has a record of fourteen quarts of milk a day. The Cloverdale Farm, of Cincinnati, mide a number of purchases, among which was the silver gray buil Fitz George, by Prince George out of Rollo's Vestina, for $350. T. R. Proctor, of Utica, bought Rollo's Vestina, by Rollo out of Vestina, for $400. L. Cabot, of this eity, bought Badier Boy's Daisy, by Badier Boy out of Lady Norton, for $400. A heifer calf out of Carlo's Bella by Perrot was bought by A. Brown, of Niles, Ohio, for $320; a heifer calf, by Count St. George, out of Golden Badier, was sold to G. B. Fornan, of Oban, N. George Kemp, the owner of the hotel, refused to comply with a notice issued from the Bureau of Buildings, and when the case was carried into the courts he produced the affidavits of a number of builders and property-owners who thought that the escapes ordered by Mr. Esterbrook were not necessary. Judge Donahne has decided that the fire-escapes are needed for the protection of the inmates of the hotel, and he has issued an order authorizing the Fire Department to creet the escapes unless the owner shall perform the work before July I.

Mr. Esterbrook said that his attention had been called to a bill introduced by Senator Daly and favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Cities, which provides that a survey must be made before the department can order the erection of escapes on any building which is supplied with any form of escape. "This means," said Mr. Esterbrook, "that owners of old tenement-houses can put up any kind of an apology for a fire-escape and compel us to go to the expense of a survey before we can cause the erection of a proper escape."

A meeting of the deacons of the church was held last evening, at which it was said the project of increasing Mr. Hiscox's salary would be discussed. One member said to the reporter:

His salary should be increased, or a parsonage given bine. We cannot afford to lose Mr. Hiscox. He is building up the church and he is popular with all the members. I know he don't want to leave it; his father was a minister of this church when it was in Stantou st., and Mr. Hiscox himself was baptized in it. But a minister with a family can't live in New York on $2.500 a year. The Pittsfield church offers him the same salary, which is there more than the equivalent of $3,500.

KILLED BY AN ELEVATED TRAIN.

KILLED BY AN ELEVATED TRAIN.

When the Elevated train leaving South Ferry at 12:21 a. m. yesterday arrived at Hanover Square Station four minutes later C. Hapton, the engineer, living at No. 168 East One-hundred-and-seventh-st., and I. Rudolph, the fireman, of No. 226 East One-hundred-and-eighth st. told the gateman, Joseph E. Shinn, that they had run over something which they thought was a cat. After the train left the station Shinn went over the track and asked Policeman Murphy, of the First Precinct, if he had seen anything of a dead cat. The officer made a search, and about seventy-five yards south of the station found the body of a man which was so mangled as to be unrecognizable. Assistance was summoned and the body was taken to the police station in New-st. The man had black hair, heavy boots and an old felt hat. His face and skull were crushed. The body was removed to the Morgue.

An investigation of the accident showed that the man had climbed one of the pillars to the track, (there being fresh dirt on one of the pillars corresponding to the mud on his boots), and was making his way to the station on the track when the train struck him and tossed him to the street, killing him instantly. It was ascertained that it was not any employe of the road.

CO-OPERATION VERSUS MONOPOLY.

A meeting in support of industrial co-operation under the auspices of the Sociologic Society, was held last evening at the German Masonic Hail, No. 220 East Fifteenth-st. Courtlandt Palmer, the principal speaker, discussed co-operation as a cure for monopoly. Among other things, he said:

Competition is the one great cause of monopoly. It has, throughout all history, made the strong man bad. He is the little boss of the savage tribes, afterward King, Czar and Emperor. He made laws without consultation, and levied taxes without representation. Competition has not been without use and value, but to-day it constitutes monopoly. Co-operation is the only antidote for this. It brings about a self-sovereignty, an expression of the rights of the many against the wishes of the few. Labor makes the wealth of the world, but monopolies are contending against themselves, and one and all against labor. The difficulty is not to be adjusted by Greenback, Civil Service or Communistic parties. It must be met with co-operation against raifronds, telegraphs and political bosses, all of which emanate from the people. The evil is to be encountered by a grand religious, political, industrial, anti-monopoly crusade. CO-OPERATION VERSUS MONOPOLY.

THE MASTERY OF MODERN LANGUAGES. A free lecture was delivered yesterday in Chickering Hall, before a small audience, on "Modera Languages and how to Master Them," by Dr. R. S. Rosenthal, of Boston. Dr. Rosenthal intimated that the modera languages could be mastered by the study of his books. He laid bare the follies and folloes of other systems of teaching them and explained the beauties of his own. Dr. Rosenthal divides a foreign language into two parts—the language of practical every-day life and that of literature. He teaches the former part first, and does it by drilling learners in necessary and universally used words and phrases.

Mayor Taussig yesterday withdrew from the race for the Democratic momination for Mayor, leaving the field clear for his competitor, Dr. J. D. McGill, who will doubtless get the nomination. President Furman, of the Board of Aldermen, said to a Trinux reporter last night that he was undecided what to do. He feit assured that the Republican Convention would give him the nomination if he desired it, but the acceptance of the citizens' nomination by Gilbert Collins was an element in the contest to which no consideration had been given. He was doubtful whether the Republican party would be willing to attach itself as a tail to the Citizens' Association kite. The Democrats held their primary elections last night, and it is understood that a majority of the delegates favor the nomination of Dr. McGill for Mayor.

TARRYTOWN.—Post Office Inspector Newcomb heard arguments on Monday in relation to the removal of the post office. Luctus T. Yale, J. S. Millard and John Rockwell, a committee of citizens, advocated its removal to the top of the hill, while a similar committee composed of D. O. Bradley, Seth Bird and M. D. Raymond, the postmaster, insisted that its proper place was on the dock, where the banks, the depot, the telegraph office and the principal business places are. Inspector Newcomb will make his report at once, and a decision will be reached in a few days. The present location, half way up the hill, was selected in 1861, when an agitation arose over the selection of a postmaster. A meeting was called to select a candidate and to fix a site for the office. A committee of three was appointed and it was agreed that one of them should name the candidate, and the other two the location. James S. See received the appointment and the dock was selected as the most suitable place for the office. After the confirmation of Mr. See he said that the dock would be deleterious to his health, and the decided to place the office on the almost inaccessible ledge where it still remains.

A WEDDING PARTY WITHOUT THE BRIDE.
Christian Lang, one of the handsomest looking young men in Woodhaven, selected Miss Lizzie Hinse for his bride, and they were to have been married on Sunday evening. Mr. Lang had purchased a neat cottage at Richmond Hill, and had furnished it in the latest style. He had also purchased several keys of beer and a dozen boxes of pretzels to celebrate the wedding with his friends. The guests were seated in the cosyl little parlor, and Mr. Lang was receiving the congratulations of his friends until about 9 o'clock when, suddenly, he became alarmed at the non-arrival of his intended bride. The minister suggested that a messenger be sent for her. The messenger returned soon after with the telegram that Lizzie had not been seen since Saturday evening. Mr. Lang took his disappointment good naturedly and quietly remarked "Vell dot seddles id. So long ash de peer vos pought, und dot Lizzie vos gone, id vos petter ash ve drink dot peer." The suggestion was seconded and the beer and pretzels disappeared. Christian says that he will sell the house and furniture. "Ash I dond dinks some more apoud dot Lizzie."

and the direct bearing which it has on human happiness, is thoroughly recognized; its uses and the danger of overtaxing thoroughly recognized; its uses and the danger of overtaking it, whether through intense mental application or by the excessive indulgence of the appetites and propensities are proper subjects for consideration. When the nervous system is deranged, it is absolutely necessary to promptly seek advice from an expert who, for a long series of years has devoted his whole time and attention to this study, and who, from his experience and practice, has learned to discover at once the cause and as promptly apply the remedy, thus avoiding the painfully slow seeking for the truth so common to the inexperienced and so annoying to the patient, who, very naturally, painfully slow seeking for the truth so common to the her-perienced and so annoying to the patient, who, very naturally, wants to know without delay what is the matter, the extent of the derangement, the probabilities of recuperation and the time required.

If the brain has become exhausted by intense mental appli-cation, depriving it of the power of connected thought, it can only recover its strength by being properly fed and nourished by the use of certain systematic methods. It is precisely the same with the nerves that preside over organic life. The value of this branch of medical practice can scarcely be over-rated, for it reaches marriage, the perpetuation of family names, the securing of hereditary titles and the retention of estates in the same family.
